

practices, expected soon. It is very important to develop efficient algorithms of signal processing and data interpretation.

- The potential of data interpretation became better, but also much more complicated.
- It was necessary to research the relationships between different Doppler and polarimetric parameters and, perhaps, to find new mesurands which are characteristic and suitable for Doppler-polarimetry.

